SENTENCED DUBLIN MAN EXONERATED

THE second "pardon" to be issued over the signature of the President has been issued recently to Mr. Walter Brady, 23 Summerhill Parade, Dublin, fifteen months after his release from prison, where he had served eighteen months of a ten-year sentence for armed robbery.

Mr. Brady was arrested, following the armed robbery of a van owned by Messrs. Johnston, Mooney and O'Brien, and was sentenced for that offence. He was released in January, 1942, but no official statement was made at the time. Last October a petition was presented to the Government asking for exoneration for Mr. Brady and for compensation. This has now been granted in a document sent to Mr. Brady's solicitor, Mr. J. H. Evans, and signed by the President, which reads:—

"I, Douglas Hyde, President of Ireland, do hereby, on the advice of the Government, wholly remit the said several punishments of ten years' penal servitude, five years' penal servitude and eighteen calendar months' imprisonment, to which the said Walter J. Brady was sentenced as aforesaid, to the intent that he shall henceforth stand released and discharged from all penalties, forfeitures and disqualifications incident to, or consequent on, the said conviction as if he had not been so charged or convicted."

The wording of this document is different from that used in similar cases in England—usually known as a "free pardon." It is understood that the reason is that our Department of Justice holds that a man cannot be pardoned for an offence he has not committed. The document is, of course, an exoneration of Mr. Brady.

The first document of this kind was issued following the exoneration of a man wrongfully convicted of complicity in a bank robbery in Drumcondra. In this case it was a confession by another person which led to the exoneration, and the man was released after serving about six months. He received £500 compensation. In the case of Mr. Brady the Government's decision was arrived at following a re-examination of the witnesses' evidence and the review of it contained in the petition made on behalf of the prisoner. The sum awarded Mr. Brady is not disclosed, but it is stated to be small.

Petrol Supplies

There is no easement of the situation concerning supplies of petrol and other fuel oils, an "Irish Times" representative was told yesterday. Further restrictions must be expected wherever possible.

To Stimulate Interest in Civil Defence

CONSIDERABLE anxiety is felt concerning the serious deterioration in the Civil Defence Services, particularly the A.R.P. branch. For several months past an atmosphere of discontent nd apathy has been reflected in the declining numbers of training effectives, and the extent to which it has permeated the ranks of the general public was indicated this week in the abandonment, owing to a meagre attendance, of a Dublin A.R.P. recruiting meeting.

Members of the Services admit freely that the position is alarming, and that the apathy and loss of strength is country-wide. Strong efforts shortly will be made to revive interest by a poster campaign, by fire-fighting displays and by a scheme of national competitions embracing teams from all parts of the country.

"The Irish people have perfected the art of sitting on the fence, and nothing short of a desperate situation will arouse enthusiasm in them for self-preservation," one of several members of the Services interviewed said to an Irish Times reporter yesterday. A variety of views on the situation was expressed in the talks, but one point seemed to find general favour — that it was a mistake not to have introduced some form of compulsion in relation to A.R.P. In this respect, it was pointed out that the organisation generally still leaves much to be desired, and that the delay in making the Local Fire Prevention Order, however insufficient it may be in the sense that it will not compel employés of large firms to carry out the work, has contributed to the dissatisfaction.

Another opinion was: "The people seem to have made up their mind, quite illogically, that the war is over, so far as danger to this country is concerned. It seems that we are very prone, as a race, to make-believe."

Generally it is felt that lack of vision in organisation, a stereotyped training programme with little or no effort made to supplement it by the inclusion of interesting work, or of social events, and a difficulty in getting people, even in the service, to pull together and fuse their interests, have contributed to a staleness that already has cost air-raid precaution measures thousands of workers.

Railway Platform Tickets Crux

Dubliners desiring to meet friends coming off trains at Westland Row Station at the moment are not permitted to pass the ticket-checker's barrier and enter the station proper: they have to wait in the scatless entrances to the various platforms.

Discussing the matter with a railway official yesterday, our reporter quoted extracts from a letter received by the Editor of the Irish Times from Mr. Bulmer Hobson, The Mill House, Rathfarnham, complaining of the inconvenience caused by the company's refusal to issue platform tickets. "In common with other parents," states Mr. Hobson, "I went to meet children returning from school by the train due from Waterford at 1.14 p.m. on the 2nd instant. Arriving at Westland Row on time, I was informed that the train would be 47 minutes late. I was refused a platform ticket, for which I offered to pay the usual charge, and could not gain access to the arrival platform. I had the pleasure of standing in the dreary entrance to the station, where no seats are provided, while on the deserted platform rows of seats were empty."

Having heard Mr. Hobson's case and admitted that he did appear to have a grievance, the official pointed out that the railway company also had a grievance. For months back, he said, people arriving off boat trains had been pestered by large numbers of city boardinghouse canvassers, who thronged the station daily. To end this objectionable form of "touting" the company had been reluctantly compelled to cease issuing platform tickets altogether.

Food Voucher Cut Protest

"Epidemics have no frontiers, and our only safeguard is keeping up the nourishment of our people and maintaining the supply of protective foods," said Miss Louie Bennett at Dun Laoghaire Borough Council last night, when moving that the Government food voucher scheme should be continued.

"We have to consider the health of the community seriously," she said, "and, if we allow the cut to be made, we are endangering the health of the community. The fact that the grants of milk, butter and bread had already been reduced in the county area was unfortunate, from every point of view. Dublin Commissioners had not made any cut in vouchers, but there was a serious danger that a cut might be made. It was deplorable that the Government should sanction the reduction of this form of help to the poor."

The resolution was adopted, and, on the motion of Councillor W. Rollins, it was decided to send a deputation to the County Commissioner to discuss the matter.

A resolution was also passed requesting the Government to continue the fuel scheme in its original basis.

Eighth Army Artillery Attacking, Says Berlin

TANKS REPORTED MOVING UP

THE Eighth Army's artillery is attacking Marshal Rommel's line north of Gabes, according to Axis sources last night.

British tank formations are said by Berlin Radio to have been drawn farther up to the front, "indicating that the British attack against Marshal Rommel's Shott positions will not be very long in coming."

Other reports say that American forces have pushed further south east from El Guettar and that the First Army has advanced beyond the Cap Serrat area, 40 miles west of Bizerta.

Fresh Attack Said To Be Near

The German Radio Military Commentator stated last night:—

"Artillery of the Eighth British Army has started test shots for finding the range to the advanced strongholds in the Axis defence zone north of Gabes.

"General Montgomery has also drawn his tank formations farther up to the front, indicating that the British attack against Rommel's Shott positions will now not be very long in coming, provided, of course, that General Patton's American forces are also again ready for action on a larger scale.

"The Allied Command will undoubtedly attach some importance to co-ordinating operations of the British and Fifth American Army.

"In the Shott area the first British line has begun to entrench itself. Rommel's advance position was subjected to nuisance shelling, and assaults of not very numerous reconnaissance forces of the Eighth Army were stopped by troops guarding the approaches."

CHANGED TACTICS

Declaring that Montgomery "has now changed his tactics," the Radio said: "Everything points to the British Commander's transition to a more economic, or, at least, cautious, handling of his supplies."

South-east of Maknassy the Americans had again launched an attempt to break through, but, it was claimed, "their frontal attack has so far failed. Fresh American reserves have been brought up near the Maknassy front. This indicates that new attacks will be attempted soon.

"The assembling of considerable American forces has also been observed in the neighbouring Central Tunisian sector of Pichon and Faid."

AMERICAN PUSH

The American Second Corps, maintaining their offensive from El Guettar, have pushed further south-east towards the Eighth Army's left flank. Two hills north of the Guettar-Gabes road have fallen to them, and have been held against a German counter-attack.

The Americans are moving slowly along a highway dominated on both sides by Axis held heights, through very extensive and cunningly laid minefields, against first-class German troops and armour. Marshal Rommel is apparently determined to hold on in this sector in order to delay as long as he can the linking up of the Eighth and First Armies.

There is heavy fighting around Kebili junction where the Germans are resisting stubbornly.

Otherwise on the whole front from Sedjenane, in the northern coastal area, to Ouderef, ten miles above Gabes, the land situation has quietened considerably. There have, however, been significant artillery duels in the Medjez el Bab region, where (says Reuter's Special Correspondent) the Germans must be feeling apprehensive in view of recent Allied success between Sedjenane and Mateur.

German counter-blows in the Pichon area have been held by French troops, two attacks on Sunday being repulsed and war material captured during a counter-attack.

With the clearing of the Tunisian skies—fine weather appears at last to have set in—Allied air activity over land has increased.

FIRST ARMY ADVANCE

Algiers Radio said last night:—

"The First British Army, including French troops, have advanced beyond the Cap Serrat area and has occupied a locality to the east without meeting any serious resistance."

The radio added:—"Cap Serrat is only 40 miles west of Bizerta and 12 miles north of Sedjenane, and its strategical importance is undeniable. The British are pushing forward methodically along the Sedjenane-Mateur road, where they are finding food and munitions dumps, abandoned by the enemy. The pressure of American forces on Rommel's right flank in the central sector is increasing, despite German counter-attacks, which have all been repelled.

"East of El Guettar, in spite of strong Axis resistance, we are continuing our offensive action, and are taking prisoners while crossing difficult ground. Von Arnim and Rommel have regrouped their forces more to the east, and one must expect serious engagements soon."

Mr. De Valera To Speak on Planning

Military Talks in Spanish Morocco

High ranking military leaders of three United Nations and Spain met in Spanish Morocco last Friday, it was announced yesterday from U.S. Army Headquarters in North Africa.

Lieut.-General Mark W. Clark, of the U.S. Fifth Army, and his Chief of Staff, Major-General Alfred M. Gruénther, journeyed to a town in Spanish Morocco, where Lieut.-General Luis Orgaz, High Commissioner of Spanish Morocco, was the host at a luncheon.

Brigadier-General Eduard Gomes, of Brazil, who has been an official visitor at Fifth Army Headquarters, and representatives of the Resident General of French Morocco, accompanied General Clark. The General reviewed the troops of the Spanish Legion, and informally spent several hours in getting acquainted.

Cardinal's View Criticised

Replying last night to the remark of Cardinal MacRory on Sunday, that the Atlantic Charter "would be certain to bring the partition of Ireland to a speedy end," the Ulster Unionist Headquarters in Belfast stated:—"The Cardinal must have a very curious conception of President Roosevelt's mentality. Nothing that great man has done so far has indicated that he is at all likely to benefit that part of Ireland which has sheltered under a shameful neutrality at the expense of Ulster, which has not only done everything to assist the Allies, but has been happy to welcome the American forces and show their hospitality for which Ireland is famous."

NO SUGAR FOR JAM

There is no change to record in regard to the prospect of sugar for domestic jam-making. As announced recently, supplies are not sufficient to repeat last year's scheme. There will be no sugar for jam in the soft fruit season, which begins in June or July, and it is doubtful if such will be available for the hard fruit season in the autumn. The circumstances which will decide the matter are the yield of the new beet crop and the amount of imported sugar available. In regard to this latter, the authorities are not hopeful.

DE GAULLE'S AFRICA VISIT POSTPONED

—By Request

GENERAL EISENHOWER has urgently requested General de Gaulle to "delay" his journey to French North Africa.

This announcement, made in London yesterday, is stated to have come as a "bombshell" to the de Gaullist headquarters there.

The French National Committee announced:—

"General Eisenhower has asked General de Gaulle to delay his journey to French North Africa. General de Gaulle and the National Committee regret this delay, which could not be prolonged without serious disadvantage. General de Gaulle and several members of the National Committee have been ready for some days to leave for Algiers to re-establish the unity of the Empire, which is necessitated by national interest and demanded by French opinion at home and overseas."

The French National Committee held a special meeting yesterday, General de Gaulle presiding. It was decided that, in the circumstances, General Eisenhower's request must be complied with, although with regret.

The Press Association Diplomatic Correspondent says that General Eisenhower gives military considerations as the reason for suggesting the postponement.

It was expected that de Gaulle would start his journey last week. Then, possibly because he wished to see Mr. Eden before leaving, his departure was arranged for to-day or to-morrow. Now the period of delay is indeterminate, as General Eisenhower has not suggested a new date.

In the meantime, General Catroux and the majority of the French mission from London are already in Algiers, and are reported to have made some progress in their conversations with Giraud. These talks have been followed by the dismissal of certain officials with Axis sympathies.

GENERAL GIRAUD.

The correspondent says there is no foundation for the suggestion that General de Gaulle might remove his headquarters from London to North Africa.

Clothing Prices To Be Fixed

WITH a view to eliminating profiteering in clothing and clothing materials important steps by the authorities may be expected shortly. These will probably take the form of price control orders. The intention is to keep all dealing in clothing within the legitimate trade, and so no one will be able to buy without a permit. This will apply to manufacturers of the raw materials as well as to wholesalers who supply the retailers.

The Department of Supplies have been working on the scheme for some time. It will be based on a reasonable margin of profit for each individual in the chain from the manufacturer to the purchaser. If successful, it is hoped it will bring prices to a reasonable level.

Since the outbreak of war, an Irish Times representative was informed, prices and profits in the clothing industry have been closely scrutinised by the Department of Supplies. In a few exceptionally bad cases drastic steps have been taken, but the trade as a whole has not taken undue advantage of the emergency conditions.

Undesirable tendencies have, however, shown themselves recently, and goods have found their way to black market channels, as a result of which prices have been marked up excessively.

NEW CURE FOR SCABIES

A new single application cure for scabies, which is credited with over 99 per cent. cures, is described in the British Medical Journal by Dr. John R. Graham. If generally adopted it will do away with the present elaborate system of clothes disinfection and sulphur baths, and permit patients to leave ten minutes after they have presented themselves at treatment centres. The patient is painted all over with a 20% benzyle benzoate emulsion, which dries in about ten minutes, and is then allowed to leave in the same clothes he arrived in. There is no need for disinfection of clothing or bedding. As used by Dr. K. Mellanby, of Poolsbrook Treatment Centre, Staveley, on 1,000 patients, between August and December, 1942, the new system had over 99 per cent. success.

Fortresses Hit Ships at Naples

NEARLY 100 Flying Fortresses took part in the raid on Naples on Sunday, the first bombing attack on the mainland of Europe from North-West Africa, said Reuter's Special Correspondent at Allied Headquarters, North Africa, in his message yesterday. The raid was compressed into fifteen minutes, during which a heavy weight of bombs was rained upon the harbour and the neighbouring airfield of Capo di Chino. Bomb bursts covered the Capo di Chino airfield.

The Fortresses went unescorted, but all returned safely.

Just before the Fortresses reached Naples Mitchell bombers attacked shipping at Carloforte, a natural harbour on the south-west coast of Sardinia. A heavy load of bombs was dropped, a coaster and nine small boats were hit, and bombs falling in the dock area caused fires.

The Italian communiqué stated:—"Naples, Syracuse, Palermo (Sicily) and Carloforte (Sardinia) were the objectives of enemy raids yesterday, the two first-named towns suffering considerable damage to public and private buildings. At Naples 221 people were killed and 387 were injured. Syracuse had four killed and 20 injured, and Carloforte 12 killed and 30 injured. Two of the enemy planes were shot down over Naples. Two of the bombers which took part in the raid on Carloforte were shot down into the sea by anti-aircraft artillery."

RAID ON KIEL

"On Sunday night aircraft of Bomber Command were over north-west Germany in great strength to attack the naval base and shipbuilding yards of Kiel," said a British Air communiqué yesterday. Heavy cloud made full observation of results impossible, but several large fires were seen in the target area. Twelve bombers are missing."

Beaufighters, armed with torpedoes, blew up two heavily-laden supply ships off the Norwegian coast on Sunday. They attacked from less that 1,000 yards, and the ships sank within a few minutes. A squadron-leader piloting one of the Beaufighters was severely wounded in the thigh, but his navigator applied a tourniquet, and he made a perfect landing.

This is the first time that it has been officially announced that the Beaufighter is being used as a torpedo-carrier.—(Press Association.)

FIRES AT ANTWERP

The British Air Ministry and the United States Army Air Force announce that a large force of Flying Fortresses (B 17s) and Liberators (B 24s) of the United States Army Eight Air Force attacked German-held industrial targets at Antwerp in daylight yesterday. Weather over the target was clear, and good bombing results were achieved.

"Fighter opposition was heavy, and many combats ensued, the bombers destroying a number of enemy aircraft. Squadrons of Royal Air Force, Dominion and Allied fighters supported and covered the bombers. They had several engagements with enemy fighters, two of which were destroyed. Four bombers and one fighter are missing."

The German News Agency last night reported that United States four-engined bombers raided Antwerp in the afternoon. Direct hits were scored on blocks, which caused fires and destruction, and severe losses among the civil population, said the Agency.—(Reuter.)

RAIDERS OVER ENGLISH TOWN

Flying from east to west, a number of raiding 'planes passed over two English South coast towns yesterday afternoon. British fighters went up to intercept them, and there was heavy anti-aircraft gunfire from many points. The raiders disappeared without dropping any bombs.—(Press Association.)

Italian Cabinet Meets To-day

The meeting comes at a moment of speculation regarding the intended role of the Italian Navy, writes Reuter's Continental observer. Speculation has been sharpened by Signor Mussolini's reshuffle of naval commands.

Berlin radio points out that the new "command of naval forces of traffic protection," to which Admiral Somigli has been appointed, "will take over the duties hitherto performed by the Light Units Squadron," and adds, "presumably its task will now be extended still further, especially in the direction of Tunis, Greece, and the Western Mediterranean, and it may be that this extension will be such that the authorities consider it calls for a special command."—(Reuter.)

Grievances of Dublin Grocers

Having been told of instances of harsh treatment for trivial offences, Dublin deputies and senators, who attended a meeting in Jury's Hotel, called last night by the Retail Grocers' Association, decided to meet a committee from the Association on Thursday to discuss the situation with a view to approaching the Minister for Supplies to secure relief.

The public representatives were told of cases where grocers had been fined and sent to prison for small overcharges, and now were about to lose their livelihood through the revocation of their tea and sugar licences. It was suggested by Mr. V. McCarthy, Chairman of the Association, that they should ask the Minister to provide that three endorsements should be necessary before a licence would be revoked, unless black marketing was proved; that a tribunal be set up to act as a court of appeal, with representation for the retail trade, and that in all cases written receipts should be produced before evidence is taken from any customer.

A 56 lb. box of butter was produced at the meeting, and a challenge was extended to any man present to cut 56 lbs. of butter from it.

It was decided to ask the Minister to stay his hand in the case of pending revocations where hardship was involved, until the discussions were completed.

Found lying in Ravensdale road, Dublin, off East Wall road, last night, by passers-by, Myles Dillon (50), of Brian road, Marino, was brought by Fire Brigade ambulance to Jervis Street Hospital, where, ten minutes later, he died. He told the ambulance men that he had "pains in his stomach."

A National Tuberculosis Campaign

DUBLIN Corporation last night, on the motion of Mr. Thomas Cosgrave, seconded by Mr. P. J. Cahill, pledged its wholehearted support to the Irish Red Cross Society in their efforts to launch a national campaign against tuberculosis.

Dr. Hannigan, T.D., said that he hoped that the action taken by the Provisional Committee in connection with the campaign would be followed by all welfare organisations throughout the country, because only if that were done could such a campaign be a success. The support that the Corporation, as an elected body, could give was confined to an expression of goodwil, as the Local Government (Dublin) Act, 1930, prevented them from having any part in the administration relating to public health, including tuberculosis, but individually they could act as propaganda agents in the campaign.

At present, said Dr. Hannigan, there were 6,000 cases of tuberculosis in Dublin—that represented an average figure for the past twelve years—and the total number of beds for those cases was only 700. He hoped that steps would be taken to improve the position for the treatment of disease, because the facilities available in Dublin were far behind those of any city of its size across the Channel although the incidence of the disease was greater here.

The only dispensary for the treatment of tuberculosis in the city had a staff of three doctors and eight nurses. That dispensary had to provide for a population of half a million.

BLIND ALLOWANCES

A deputation from the Irish National League of the Blind waited on the Corporation to urge an increase in the allowances to the necessitous blind and to ask the Corporation's co-operation in getting amending legislation passed to admit of their receiving higher allowances.

A motion of Mr. John Breen was passed, to make provision to increase the present allowances paid to the necessitous blind by the Corporation by 4s. a week.

Alderman Alfred Byrne, T.D., said that he had raised the matter four times in the Dail, and that only last week did he get any satisfaction. Always when they raised the question the means test was thrown in their teeth.

Dr. Hannigan observed that when the Minister went out he would get a pension and no means test would be applied to him.

The report of the City Manager (Mr. P. J. Hernon) about the removal of the Wolfe Tone and United Irishmen Memorial from its site in St. Stephen's Green was adopted.

An addendum to the motion, to send the report to the General Purposes Committee for consideration, was passed.

NO ELECTION INFORMATION

WHEN Dublin Corporation last night fixed June 28 as the date of the next quarterly meeting (when the Lord Mayor for the year will be elected), Dr. Hannigan asked: "Are you sure that date will not clash with the general election?"

"I have no information on that matter," answered the Lord Mayor (Ald. P. S. Doyle, T.D.).

More Fruit Here

Oranges, lemons and grapefruit from Spain have arrived in Dublin, and will be on sale to-morrow afternoon.

There are 9,000 cases of oranges, 2,000 cases of lemons and a smaller number of cases of grapefruit. The fruit is said to be fresher and sweeter than the consignment which arrived on January 30 last, as the boat which carried it took only five days' actual sailing time from Cadiz.

RUSSIANS ADVANCE IN KUBAN

MOSCOW, Monday. — General Maslennikov's forces in the Kuban, developing their offensive, have advanced again in the last 24 hours. The German bridgehead now has been reduced to a diamond-shaped area, about 75 miles from east to west, and about 40 miles from north to south.

The Red Army is hammering at several points along the zig-zag line from Novorossisk, in the south, to the Azov shore, in the north. The Germans still hold Novorossisk, the only large town left in Axis hands, but Soviet troops are still dug in among the cement works on the eastern outskirts.

West of Rostov the Germans have been probing the Soviet lines with strong reconnaissance groups. A number of these isolated thrusts has been beaten off during the last few days.

On the other fronts the heaviest fighting still is on the Donetz, south of Izyum and around Byelgorod. Battles are raging on the river's right bank, and the Luftwaffe is making as many as 100 flights as a preliminary to the German infantry attacks.—(Reuter.)

According to a Stockholm message last night, the Russians have captured Bakansk, a town on the main Kuban railway, 12 miles from Novorossisk. The battle for this town is stated to have begun last Friday.—(Reuter.)

MASS ATTACKS

The German News Agency last night said: "The focal point of the fighting is in the south-eastern part of the Kuban bridgehead, where a shortening of the German front line has been carried out during the past few days. All Russian mass attacks launched afterwards were repulsed, though the attackers employed the concentrated power of their weapons. For the first time the Russians employed tanks on this sector, but 23 were shot up.

SOVIET COMMUNIQUE

Last night's Soviet communiqué stated:—

"South of Izyum our troops fought defensive engagements in the morning the enemy renewed his attack. To-day German tanks and infantry operated in two directions in an attempt to outflank our units. One of our units repulsed German attacks, disabled four tanks, and wiped out about a company of German infantry.

"On the central front our troops consolidated their positions and carried out fighting reconnaissance. About 200 officers and men were killed by infantry and artillery fire.

"In the Kuban Valley our troops captured several inhabited localities as a result of two days of fierce fighting, which repeatedly passed into hand-to-hand encounters.

Higher Milk Prices Claimed

A statement in a letter from the Department of Supplies, read at a recent meeting of the retail grocery trades held in Dublin, that the price of milk to the farmer had been fixed at 9d. per gallon in April, 1942, is contradicted by Miss E. F. Bobbett, Secretary, Irish Farmers' Federation.

Miss Bobbett says that the price for milk was raised in April, 1942, from 6d. to 7d. per gallon, and that it was only about September 10 that the price was raised to 9d. per gallon. During that period, from April to September, the retail price for butter in most districts was 1s. 9d. and 1s. 10d. per lb. The bulk of the butter was made at the creameries during May to September, so that when the price of butter was raised to 2s. per lb. in September the Irish Farmers' Federation sent a resolution to the Minister for Agriculture asking that the price fixed for milk at 9d. per gallon be made retrospective to the farmers. The farmers did not get the price as from April 1942. Had they been given a just price in April, 1942, the present necessity for rationing butter might have been avoided.

Individual Horse Exporter Gets Spanish Orders

NO statement is to be issued by the Bloodstock Breeders' and Horse Owners' Association for a few days about their meeting to discuss the exportation of Irish thoroughbreds to Spain.

According to Mr. B. Kerr, a bloodstock exporter, who was interviewed by an Irish Times representative yesterday, it is not correct to state that the Bloodstock Breeders' Association will, even to some extent, "control" the shipments of bloodstock from this country. The orders are placed with individuals, and, he said, it is up to those persons to deliver the right class of goods.

Still, he remarked, without the assistance of the Breeders' Association and the co-operation of the Horse Owners' Association, it would have been impossible to procure the permits and the shipping space and the orders would have gone elsewhere.

Mr. Kerr stated that the first Spanish order for two-year-old colts and fillies was dispatched to him last October, but at the time it was impossible to obtain the necessary licences and shipping space. Now, however, through the agency of the Irish Bloodstock Breeders' and Horse Owners' Association, acting in co-operation with the Irish Horse Owners' Association (a separate body), the way has been cleared for the fulfilment of the contracts entered into, and it is hoped that this month accommodation will be provided for the shipment of the first consignment—at least thirty of the animals already on order.

It was mainly through his instrumentality, said Mr. Kerr, that the Irish Bloodstock and Breeders' Association became interested in the project. His original order was for forty two-year-olds, but the Department of Agriculture, after consultation with the shipping company, declined to issue the permits on the ground that weather conditions would cause unusually heavy casualties in the Bay of Biscay, as the ships would have to keep well out from the coast in the bad weather.

Since the outbreak of the civil war there has been little, if any, racing in Spain, but it seems that President Franco is extremely keen on its revival, and to Ireland has come the commission for horses to help to put it on its feet again.

"Punchestown" Races at Naas

BY OUR RACING CORRESPONDENT.

It is not likely that many Dublin people will make the journey to Clonmel for the Powerstown Park meeting on Thursday, as to do the trip in anything like comfort would mean three full days away from home. It is more likely that the majority will, by various methods, climb the rocky road to Calary Bog, where Bray Harriers hold their annual meeting on Wednesday. A great sporting event this, but even with the best of facilities not easy to get to. It looks as if the old method will have to be resorted to on this occasion—that is, to take train to Bray and then go by road to the venue.

The first race at Powerstown is timed for 2.30, which means that travellers from Dublin would certainly miss the beginning if going by the morning train. There may be some sound reason for the arrangement, but it does seem that a later start might be made now that there is such a stretch in the daylight hours. Even half an hour would make a big difference, and possibly enable all to reach the venue in time.

It is an attractive programme that awaits discussion, and no doubt, even without the Dublin crowd, there will be a splendid attendance, for there is no district in the country where the people are more racing-minded.

A nicely varied card will be provided at Leopardstown on Saturday. A two years old event opens the racing, and afterwards hurdle races, 'chases and flat races fill the bill.

Entries close to-morrow for seven races at Naas May meeting. These include the Punchestown Plate, presented by the Punchestown Executive, which will be more or less a substitute for the Tickell Cup and Bishopscourt Cup, usually run for at Punchestown. The Foxhunters' Steeplechase is another race of a Punchestown character, and should receive plenty of entries.

Entries also close to-morrow for six races at Phœnix Park on May 5th. At this meeting, which will be on a Wednesday, there will be two hurdle races, as well as the usual flat events. Other closings to-morrow are for seven races at Powerstown Park meeting on May 6th.

SCHOOLBOYS PLAY GREAT RUGBY

BY OUR RUGBY FOOTBALL CORRESPONDENT.

EVEN though St. Mary's could not compare with Blackrock in constructive ability, they tried so hard, and played with so much courage and determination, that I enjoyed the schools' final far more than any match I have seen so far in the senior cup. Individually, St. Mary's backs revealed considerable ability. Their scrum-half made a clever break-away to lead up to the only try they scored; both the centres and the left wing had runs which worried the opposing defence, and the forwards had some inspiring rushes in the last few minutes; but where the losers excelled was in their tackling, which was sufficiently quick to upset the rhythm of most of the Blackrock passing movements, and their general resourcefulness in saving their line.

Where they failed was in not stopping N. Brennan when the right wing scored his first try. He was actually tackled a few yards from the line, but was not brought down, and he contrived to force his way over. His second try was well taken, for he had to run half the length of the field; but had the St. Mary's full-back not been on the side-line injured, it is unlikely that Brennan would have scored, as the wing forward who was filling the full-back's position completely misjudged his speed, and was just late in trying to force him into touch.

Still, Blackrock deserved to win; and senior players could learn a couple of important things from the play. One was the timing of passes. B. Nolan, the scrum-half, showed particular skill in sending out an accurate delivery after breaking through on the blind side, which gave the player receiving the ball a reasonable opportunity of making ground. Almost without exception, our senior backs have only the vaguest idea of the right moment to deliver a pass. Either they get rid of the ball before drawing the opponent or else they wait until they are tackled, when the chance of sending out an accurate pass is almost nil. Nearly all the Blackrock boys have acquired this important technique, and they also watch the ball closely when they are taking a pass. I was particularly struck with the ability of one of the centres, P. O'Farrell, to accept a difficult transfer when a score seemed likely. Senior club players have a knack of just not doing this at the important moment.

There is an attractive programme for Lansdowne road to-morrow afternoon. At 2.30, the Leinster Schools will meet the Ulster Schools; and, following this, Blackrock and St. Mary's will be in opposition again, this time in the final of the Junior Schools' Cup. The Leinster Schools' XV. was chosen after Saturday's final, and looks a formidable side. The big Terenure boy, A. McMorrow, who was over the age limit for the schools' cup matches, is at full-back. The Blackrock wings have the promising Wesley Lunney, and Lynch, who did so well for St. Mary's, beside them; and, of course, the Blackrock half-backs are chosen to complete what should be a grand attacking set of backs. The forwards are fairly well distributed among the schools. Newbridge supply two, and St. Mary's, Wesley, Castleknock, Belvedere, Clongowes, and Blackrock one each. Ulster, a very big team on that occasion, won last year's match in the North; they will need to be very good on this occasion to repeat that success.

Fine Entry For Moran Cup

There is an alteration in the dates for the Michael Moran Memorial Cup, which will be played at Grange on 19th, 20th and 21st inst. instead of 20th, 22nd and 23rd as originally arranged by the Leinster Branch.

Since it was started the Leinster professionals have loyally supported the competition, inaugurated to perpetuate the memory of Ireland's once peerless golfer, who was killed in France in the first World War, and for the 24th tournament there is the representative entry of 32, including past winners in Harry Bradshaw (the holder), Willie Holley, Paddy Mahon and Pat O'Connor. The record number of wins stands to the credit of Holley (6), one more than the late Willie Nolan, who after his initial victory in 1931 was unbeatable in the years 1933-1936 inclusive.

The draw is:—

H. Murphy (Newlands), v. A. Whiston (Dun Laoghaire).
F. Watters (Royal Dublin) v. K. O'Connor (Elm Park).
E. Bradshaw (Delgany) v. E. Hackett (Portmarnock).

TIPPERARY HOUNDS

The Tipperary Foxhounds closed their season on March 31. They had some good hunting, during which hounds were out eighty days, killed nine and a half brace and marked forty and a half brace to ground. Hounds had only one blank day, and that was cub hunting.

March 27th—Coleman's Cross. Hounds had a very fast 20 minutes from the Kennel Screen down into Moorstown, when a heavy shower spoilt scent. From Tullamaine hounds hunted to Coolmoyne Creamery, where the fox got to ground. An outlier found here ran a left-handed ring before getting to ground. Hounds did not find again.

March 31st—Ballingarry. Garranacole produced a vixen which was marked to ground. Prout's proved blank, but from Maher's gorse a fox ran a few fields to ground in Prout's. From Kyle hounds had a nice hunt of 45 minutes. They ran a right-handed circle, and, coming back through the covert, ran on nearly to Two Trees, where they swung right-handed and lost their fox near Lismolin Cross.

MINOR LEAGUE FINAL

U.C.D. 3rd ... 14 Blackrock Coll. 3rd 9

U.C.D. 3rd beat Blackrock College 3rd by 2 goals (1 pen.) and 2 tries (14 pts.) to a penalty goal and 2 tries (9 pts.) in the Minor League final at Donnybrook yesterday. O'Riordan scored a try which he himself converted and kicked a penalty goal, and Condon and McMullan also got tries for the winners. Maguire scored two tries and Gilthorpe kicked a penalty goal for Blackrock.

SUGGESTED CHALLENGE MATCH

A correspondent, who omits to give his name or address, suggests that it would be interesting to see a schools' challenge match between Belvedere and Blackrock. Belvedere, he states, should have beaten St. Mary's, and were much fancied to win the Schools' Cup this year. Such a match would be an added attraction if played as an Easter fixture to the Leinster Senior Cup final.

Trade Union Tribunal

The Government is expected to announce within the next few days the personnel of the new Trade Union Tribunal, which will be empowered, on application being made to it, to decide what trade union, or unions, shall have the right to organise masters or workers of a particular class.

Being set up under Part 3 of the Trade Union Act, 1941, which came into operation yesterday, the Tribunal will consist of a Chairman, appointed by the Minister for Industry and Commerce; two representatives of employers and two representatives of workers. The latter four members will be selected from panels of persons nominated by licensed masters' and workers' trades unions. In practice, however, the Tribunal will consist of only three persons, as representatives of workers will not be eligible to act on a Tribunal dealing with an application from a trade union of masters, and vice versa. Where any union representative on the Tribunal is directly interested in an application before it, his place will be filled from the panels.

Provision is made for appeal to a Board, consisting of a Judge as Chairman, nominated by the President of the High Court, and two members nominated by the Minister.

The position of trade union officials adversely affected by a determination is protected. A union given the right to organise must introduce a satisfactory system of appeal from refusal of membership to it. Failure to do so will render it liable to a fine of £100.

It is understood that from 40 to 60 persons have been nominated for inclusion on the panels.

Food Vouchers

The following statement appeared in a leading article in the Irish Times on Saturday last:—"Recently Mr. de Valera's Government announced the abandonment of its issue of food vouchers and cheap fuel for the poor."

"The Government," says a statement from the Government Information Bureau, on behalf of the Department of Local Government and Public Health, "made no such announcement, and the statement is completely untrue. In regard to cheap fuel, grants were made to public assistance authorities to encourage them to provide good fuel for the winter season, free for some classes, and at nominal prices for others. The scheme was to terminate on the 31st March, but it has been decided to continue the scheme in modified form during the summer. So far from being abandoned, the scheme has been extended."

Relief Workers' Bonus

Replying at Dublin Corporation last night to motions tabled by Alderman Alfred Byrne, T.D., and Dr. Hannigan the City Manager (Mr. P. J. Hernon) said that an emergency bonus for relief workers had been sanctioned by the Minister for Local Government at the rate of 7/- for 44 hours' week for adults, and 2/6 for boys; and for hired carters at the rate of 3½d. an hour, to take effect from April 3.

Alderman Byrne and Mr. Brack protested against the discrimination by paying the men only from April 3, instead of from January, as in the case of other workers on the Corporation staff.

Trial for Eire Soccer XI.

Next Saturday is a "blank" for the senior "soccer" clubs, but on Sunday the match between the Army and the Football Association of Ireland XI. will be played at Dalymount Park, and for this, the second fixture arranged between the Army Football Association and the governing body, the latter have paid the soldiers the compliment of selecting a very strong side, whose play will be watched with unusual interest in view of the return game between the League of Ireland and the North of Ireland Regional League at Belfast on Easter Monday.

The F.A.I. team differs in several positions to the side which failed in the first of the inter-league matches at Dalymount Park. McAlinden (Cork) replaces Matier (Dundalk) in goal; but the backs are the same—Hayes and Noonan. Leathem, the best of the centre half-backs in Eire, is retained; while the wing halves are Joe O'Reilly, of St. James's Gate, the well-tried veteran of the team, and that most promising of the younger school, O'Mara, of Drumcondra.

The Army XI., compared to the opposition, does not strike one as being anything like as strong in attack; but the defence, judging by the form in the two trials, is sound. It should be a very interesting game, but the soldiers are up against a tough proposition.

Cork have qualified for the final of the F.A.I. Cup at Dalymount Park on April 18th; but Drumcondra and Limerick still have to settle their differences, and in all likelihood will do so to-morrow evening (6.15) at Dalymount. The Tolka Park forwards struck a very bad patch in Sunday's game. It was, perhaps, the most listless exhibition they have given away from home this season. Limerick, on the other hand, rose to the occasion in grand style, particularly the goalkeeper, backs and half-backs; but their attack lacked finish.

The experience gained on Sunday should do each team a world of good. Drumcondra again will be strong favourites; but, unless their forwards have 'on their shooting boots and take their chances as they come, the possibility of an all-provincial final is not to be ruled out.

When is it permissible for an opponent to charge the goalkeeper; is the goalkeeper absolutely immune from charging? Our referees, without exception, seemingly are of the opinion that under no circumstances must a goalkeeper be charged whether he is in possession of the ball or not. The rule, however, is pretty definite on the point:—"A player shall be penalised . . . if he intentionally charges the goalkeeper, except when he is holding the ball or obstructing an opponent, or when he has passed outside the goal area." That implies that the goalkeeper legitimately may be charged when he is holding on to the ball.

Another point that has been more than once referred to here has reference to the use of the legs in tackling. Here again the rule is definite; but how often is it applied? It states that a player shall be punished if he "intentionally trips, including throwing or attempting to throw, an opponent by use of the legs," or by stooping in front or behind him.

DONORE HARRIERS' 50th YEAR

To celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their foundation, Donore Harriers held a dinner at the Red Bank Restaurant, O'Connell street, on Saturday, at which the President, Mr. C. McManus, was supported by a very large company of past and present members of the club, including two of the founders, and representatives of the leading athletic organisations. Proposing the toast of "The Club" Mr. T. W. Murphy gave an interesting résumé of the state of athletics in Ireland at the time of the formation of the club, and recalled the consistently prominent part that the club had played in the sport since it came into being.

Other toasts honoured during the evening included "The A.A.U. (E.), proposed by Mr. Miller and replied to by Mr. J. J. Cleary, and "The Visitors," submitted by Mr. F. Cahill and responded to by Mr. F. J. Duffy (Civil Service Harriers).

CYCLING

Sergeant T. Farry (24th Batt.) won the Curragh Command road cycle championship, over a course of approximately 30 miles, at the Curragh yesterday, and the 24th Batt. won the team championship. Competitors rode in battle-dress, minus only the rifle. Eighty-eight started.

Hockey.—Avoca School Old Boys 4 (D. Andrews 2, A. Thompson, H. Sullivan), Avoca School and Masters 1 (R. F. Browne).

U.C.D. NOTES

BY OUR CORRESPONDENT.

IT was with much regret that College heard of the death last week of Dr. John Ryan, who was at the time of his death President of the Athletic Union Council and who had been for many years a prime mover in the athletic activities in College. He was particularly keen and successful in encouraging inter-varsity fixtures and was indispensable at all College sports meetings. All College clubs, and in particular the Athletic Club of which he was hon. treasurer, deeply mourn his passing.

The end of the Hilary Term has brought with it a crop of interesting meetings. On Friday, March 26th, was held the Law Society inaugural. The subject of the auditor, Mr. T. A. Finlay's address was "Bureaucracy and the law." The choice of a topic which, while of a distinct legal nature was none the less possessed of a popular appeal, was fortunate as the ensuing discussion displayed. The visiting speakers were His Honor Judge Eugene Sheehy, Mr. Ralph Brereton-Barry, S.C., and Professor Patrick McGilligan. All three insisted in the urgency of the problem which was under consideration and in a manner not unrelieved by humour pointed out the workings of Bureaucracy in this country today. The President of the Society, Professor Michael Ryan, S.C., also spoke.

TUBERCULOSIS

Another urgent matter was discussed at the meeting of the Medical Society held on Monday, March 29th. Dr. John Duffy there read a paper on some aspects of the problems of tuberculosis in Ireland to-day. The meeting, which was well attended and much publicised, is part of a virile policy on the part of the Medical Society in College to impress on students their responsibilities as regards this grave national danger.

The new S.R.C., after some weeks of more than usually exciting activity, has settled down to the more conventional problems of administration. At a meeting held last Tuesday the Treasurer's estimate of a profit of £23 on the dance held in the Aula Maxima on St. Patrick's night was a welcome announcement. The director of the National Student has appointed Messrs. R. J Cremins and J. W. Hackett as co-editors for the next number.

ATHLETIC CLUB

With the first signs of spring the Athletic Club is re-appearing after its virtual hibernation. At its annual general meeting held lately amongst other officers it elected Alex. Lyons captain, Ronnie Thornton vice-captain, and Sean O'Flanagan hon. secretary. It is sincerely to be hoped that since the President has lifted the ban on travelling a real effort will be made to revive Inter-Varsity meetings, which for some years now have lapsed.

FUNERALS

The funeral took place yesterday to Mount Jerome Cemetery, after Mass in St. Michael's Church, Dun Laoghaire of Mr. Hugh Alexander Law, Knight of Malta, Barrister-at-Law. The Rev. W. The coffin was draped with the Flag of the Order, a white cross on a red ground, during Mass on the journey to the cemetery and at the graveside.

MR. JAMES WOOD

The funeral took place yesterday of Mr. James Wood, late of the Incorporated Law Society of Ireland, Four Courts, Dublin, to Mount Jerome Cemetery. Service was conducted in the Church of the Cemetery by the Rev. R. J. Kerr, Rector of St. Michan's and St. Paul's.

The chief mourners were:—Mr. J. P. Wood and Mr. W. G. Wood (sons); Mrs. G. Sibley (daughter); Mr. G. Sibley (son-in-law); Mr. A. McCamley, Mrs. H. McCamley, Mr. A. C. Knox, and Mr. T. Rudd (relatives).

Dublin Restaurant Fire

A fire yesterday morning destroyed the greater portion of The Green Rooster Restaurant, 52 O'Connell street, Dublin, one of the city's most popular snack bars. Within twenty-five minutes, despite the prompt arrival of the Fire Brigade, the restaurant was a smouldering mass of charred furniture, partly-cooked and burnt food. The fire is believed to have originated in the kitchen, on the basement, where the damage is the most extensive. The glass roof was destroyed, and the flooring was littered with cushions and broken glass.

Downward Trend in Home Rails

MARKETS started the week in active fashion on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday. Irish Industrials attracted most attention as generally steady to firm levels. Home Rails made a dull showing, and British Industrials moved irregularly.

Second National Loan rose to 115¼, but Agreement Loan eased to 108½ and 4½ p.c. Land Bonds to 116½. 3½ p.c. War Loan hardened slightly to 106¾.

Banks enjoyed a fair measure of attention and values held up well, apart from Bank of Ireland, which fell a further point to 346. Guinness units continued on the dull side and gave way to 117/6.

Home Rails met with fresh liquidation, and Great Northern Pref. lost a point at 37. Great Southern Ord. tended higher to 5¼, but the Pref eased to 14¼, the Gtd. drooped to 27 and the Deb. to 54.

Draperies were easier. Crowe Wilson Ord. declined to 19/- and McBirney Ord. lost 1/- at 4/-. Dickens Leather Pref. advanced to 25/- and Drummond Pref. jumped 2/- to 20/-. Kapp and Peterson Ord. on the recent strong demand spurted to 12/6. Green Cinema Ord. hardened to 2/3, and a good number of other Irish Industrials were dealt in at steady levels.

Among Textiles, British Celanese Ord. were again a strong feature at 22/7½. Courtaulds eased to 48/6 and Bleachers quoted 9/6. Imperial Tobacco Ord. sharply recovered 1/6 to 145/3 and B.A.T. Ord. quoted 98/6.

Imperial Chemical Ord. declined to 39/-, but Vickers Ord. rose to 20/4½ and Woolworth Ord. to 60/6. Brazil Traction quoted 24½.

Middle-Aged Tired Feeling

is probably due to Acid Stomach

Nearly all men, and women too, at about the age of 40 begin to suffer more or less with acidity which gives rise to the varied symptoms of dyspepsia. Food causes flatulence and possibly pain. You lose tone and suffer from physical and mental weariness which shakes your self-confidence and makes you imagine that old age is overtaking you.

Your doctor would tell you to dismiss the thought and banish the trouble by taking 'Milk of Magnesia' to sweeten your sour stomach. He would also assure you that 'Milk of Magnesia' is the antacid most acceptable and soothing to the stomach.

'Milk of Magnesia' restores the normal activity of the gastric juice so that the digestion of food proceeds easily, without disturbance.

The effect of 'Milk of Magnesia' in neutralizing acidity is marvellous. With good digestion regained, most of the "pep" you think you've lost will quickly return. Get either the liquid preparation or the remarkable new 'Milk of Magnesia' brand Tablets. They're delightful to take and easy to carry with you.

Obtainable everywhere. 'Milk of Magnesia' 1/3 and 2/6 (Treble Size). Also 'Milk of Magnesia' Tablets 6d., 1/-, 2/- and 3/6.

IRISH DUNLOP PROFIT DOWN

A fall of £17,175 to £34,861 in net profit is shown in the report of the Irish Dunlop Company, Ltd., for the year 1942, the comparable figure for 1941 being £52,036. The transfer to taxation reserve is reduced from £30,827 to £18,440, and nothing is placed to contingencies reserve, which received £6,000 for 1941.

In addition to the fixed Preference dividend of 5 p.c. per annum, it is proposed to pay 2½ p.c. per annum on the Participating Preference shares and a dividend on the Ordinary shares of £7,813 (same). The balance remaining after the above appropriations, £7,733, is carried forward, against £6,156 brought in.

The directors report that production during 1942 has been adversely affected by the difficulties of raw material supplies. The restricted numbers of tyres produced have been distributed in accordance with Government requirements.

The board is continuing its policy of conserving the company's resources by the maintenance of the reserves previously set up.

The Board reports with great regret the resignation of Mr. D. Telford, who has been a director of the company since its inception. The directors wish to record their deep appreciation of his valuable services.

THE MEATH HOSPITAL

The Convalescent Home at Bray, which is attached to the Meath Hospital, Dublin, may have to be closed on September 30 unless more suitable accommodation can be obtained. This was stated by Surgeon Henry Stokes at the annual meeting of the governors and subscribers of the Meath Hospital in Dublin yesterday.

Alderman P. S. Doyle, T.D. (Lord Mayor), who presided, said that it was not in keeping with the general good of the poor of the city that hospitals should be outside the city — but other people felt differently. The people of Dublin were full of appreciation for the services rendered by the medical, surgical, and nursing staffs of the hospital, who were carrying on under conditions which were very different to those of 20 years ago. The alarming decrease in donations and subscriptions was referred to in the report, read by Mr. J. I. FitzPatrick, Manager-Secretary. It was stated that of the 1,998 patients treated during the year, free treatment had been given to 1,461. Outpatients numbered 41,700, and 195 had been cared for in Bray Convalescent Home. Proposing that the hospital was worthy of support, Dr. William Boxwell paid a tribute to the Guinness family, who for 125 years had worked for the hospital. The hospital, he added, was full of traditions, its very site being a portion of Dean Swift's garden, and it had been founded as a joint hospital for Dublin's poor in 1893. On the motion of Mr. Dunlop, the present joint committee was re-elected.

Kuban Offensive

Reports regarding the progress of the Russian offensive in the Kuban area have come during the week-end from a variety of sources; but they all indicate that General Maslennikov is increasing the pressure on the Kuban bridgehead, which still is being held with stubborn determination by the Germans. This bridgehead protects the vital naval base at Novorossisk, which is the only place of any appreciable size left in German hands on this sector of the front. It seems that the area held by the Germans has been reduced to a diamond-shaped patch, measuring about seventy-five miles from east to west, and about forty from north to south The German bulletin yesterday admitted that the line had been shortened in the Kuban, adding that all subsequent Russian attacks had been repulsed, although for the first time in this area General Maslennikov had used tanks in his offensive. According to the German High Command, the Russians have attacked in the Kuban with several divisions, concentrating their thrust for the moment on the eastern flank of the bridgehead around Novorossisk. The Russians themselves, as usual, are reticent, contenting themselves with the bald statement that "offensive operations" still are in progress. A report from Stockholm declares that Soviet troops have occupied the town of Bakansk, on the main Kuban railway, while the Corriere della Sera of Milan announces that the Russians are concentrating large masses of troops and material between Krasnodar and Rostov-on-Don in preparation for a new and powerful offensive. It is obvious that the Russian High Command attaches considerable importance to Novorossisk. Reuter reports that General Maslennikov is hammering away at the zig-zag line that runs between Novorossisk in the south and the shore of Azov in the north, and it is clear that the Germans' recent success in the Kharkov area has done little or nothing to reduce the strength of the Russian attack. Novorossisk is occupied by the Germans, but Red troops have dug themselves into the eastern outskirts of the town, where a cement factory is serving as a kind of fortress within a fortress. The Soviet commanders are adepts at the art of street fighting, as was proved in spectacular fashion during the siege of Stalingrad. The Germans in Novorossisk are virtually surrounded, although they still can get their supplies by sea, and it is quite possible that they may be able to hold out for weeks, unless they decide that the game in the Kuban is not worth the candle. Much will depend on the Germans' plans for their spring offensive. Their determined retention of Novorossisk suggests that they have not yet abandoned their resolve to drive into the Caucasus in order to secure control of its famous oil fields; but since the siege of Stalingrad this part of the front has acquired an almost mystic significance in Russian eyes. Russians and Germans alike are fighting fiercely in the Kuban. Elsewhere both sides are limiting their immediate activities to reconnaissance work. Neither knows the other's plans for the spring, with the result that there is a constant process of probing along the entire front. Each side is trying to keep the other guessing, and, for the time being, apart from the Kuban battles, the war in Russia is a tussle between the rival Intelligence Services rather than between the vast armies that are arrayed against each other. Doubtless, with the improvement in weather conditions and the gradual hardening of the ground after the thaws, the world will not have long to wait for military action. Each side in Russia probably will make a desperate effort to secure a decision before the end of the autumn. Neither Germans nor Russians can contemplate another winter campaign without feelings of horror.

Flats or Houses

Some day the war will end, and some time later it will be possible to carry on with the rehousing of Dublin. Doubtless, there will be lingering echoes of the old controversy on the theme of houses versus block flats, which has caused the expenditure of so many words in the past. As readers know, this newspaper has been consistent in its advocacy of houses on virgin sites on the city's outskirts. All the arguments—with one false and one dubious exception—are in favour of that policy. Suburban housing is healthier, being distant from the dwellings on the third or fourth floor in a decent condition; but experience shows that they are outnumbered by those who merely carry the "tenement mentality" from the old to the new tenement—the change of environment is not sufficiently abrupt to create a change of habits. Thus it comes that the city which concentrates on block flats in, or close to, its centre cannot hope to be "metropolitan" in the word's best sense; and thus it comes that the majority of town-planners either accept the doctrine of suburban colonies and "satellite towns" with a whole heart, or are inclining in that direction. What, then, can be said in favour of blocks of flats? One answer is that the people cannot afford transport between the city, where they work, and their homes on the outskirts. That may be true; yet it has been demonstrated in this newspaper and elsewhere that houses can be provided in the suburbs, and that free transport can be supplied, at less cost to the community than the cost of tenement flats. The prevailing answer, however, is that the people prefer block flats. This statement never has been proved, and we doubt if it ever could be proved. According to Mr. G. McAllister, Chairman of the Town Planning Group in Great Britain, many inquiries show that only 10 per cent. of the people in need of dwellings want to live in flats: the remaining 90 per cent. desire homes with gardens. Therein we are satisfied that London's experience runs parallel to Dublin's. For every one person rehoused, say, in Crumlin, who wishes to exchange his home for a flat in the city proper, how many flat-dwellers would prefer a change to Crumlin? We hope that the revival of the slum clearance campaign at the end of the war will see the establishment of a definite policy for the development of greater Dublin on all the grounds of health, economy and speed. The demand for dwellings will be great, and it must be satisfied in the most efficient and enduring way.

WORLD AN ECONOMIC UNIT

Insularity may have served its purpose for the first twenty years of the existence of this State; there may have been an excuse for gazing with jaundiced eye on a British Commonwealth of Nations, but, observed Mr. Vincent O'Hare, Irish Manager of the Cunard and White Star Line, at the Rotary Club luncheon in the Gresham Hotel, Dublin, yesterday, there will be no place in the new world for a country which holds itself aloof from the world comity of nations.

Mr. O'Hare was addressing the Club on committee organisation, and remarking that the International Service Committee was in abeyance.

It was being forced in upon them every day that the whole world was really an economic and business unit. He believed that in that Club there were the men to form a small International Service Committee, and he suggested that it should be in operation now more than ever.

Mr. O'Hare explained the functions of the various committees that make up the governing body of the Club.

To improve their committee work they must start by finding the right personnel.

A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. O'Hare on the motion of Mr. Keith Eason, seconded by Mr. W. McConnell.

Mr. A. G. Bruty, President, presided.

GAIETY THEATRE
DAME SYBIL THORNDIKE IN "GHOSTS"

It was in this play that Ibsen began to perfect his gift for imparting tense dramatic interest to the unveiling of the past. He was to write better plays than "Ghosts," plays in which the method of Greek tragedy was to be more harmoniously adapted to the needs of modern drama, but it was here that he called the attention of the world to his genius for realistic drama. Some of his imitators since have written plays which may seem to adjust themselves better to our modern idea of tragedy, but when we see him finely played, as on this occasion, we realise that no other dramatist, within the limits of realism, has so deeply searched the human heart.

The subject matter of this play has been disliked. When it was first seen in an English translation, just over fifty years ago, it was subjected to much abuse, the echo of which hangs even still around its name in this play. The tragedy of Mrs. Alving and her son, Oswald, is the result of an unfortunate marriage and her own lack of courage in refusing to end a situation that had become a horror, and which does not end even with the collapse of Oswald into imbecility. The story is not remarkable, and it has unpleasant aspects, but there is an intensity beneath its surface which is always as exciting as it is profound.

While we listen to the talk of the hidebound Pastor Manders to Mrs. Alving it is the past, not the present as it passes before us, that becomes tremendously alive and moving. Sometimes the drama of the past seems everything, and the drama of the present very little. The present could fade easily from our attention did not the actress of Mrs. Alving bring skill and power to every moment of the character. This is what Dame Sybil Thorndike managed so magnificently in one of the finest performances of "Ghosts" of the many that Dublin has seen, and rarely has an audience risen more wholeheartedly to the thrill of great playing as at the Gaiety last night.

She was served splendidly by the surrounding cast. Micheal Mac Liammoir had fine moments, too, as Oswald, and one really grand one at the end. Liam Gaffney was faultlessly in character as Pastor Manders; Robert Hennessy gave one of his best performances as Engstrand, and there could not have been a Regina better than the one that Meriel Moore gave.

The production, in the period of the 1880's, was smooth and finished in Hilton Edwards's best manner, and will be remembered for some of the finest playing that Dublin has seen for a long time.

BALLET SHOW AT GATE

There is no doubt that the Irish Ballet Club has developed a definite style that will always distinguish its work from that of other companies, and last night's performance at the Gate Theatre showed clearly both the possibilities and limitations of this style, which in many ways resembles that of the Kurt Jooss Company.

Of the new works which were performed, the long-awaited "Peter and the Wolf," to Profokieff's delightful music, with narration by Joseph Reade, was a gay little episode. Donato Fortes as Peter, Kay Doolin as the Cat, and Ethna Bartley as the Bird, were excellent, but the real discovery of the ballet was Joan McInally, who danced the part of the Duck with infectious good humour. Jose MacAvin as the Wolf was hampered by an unsuitable costume; the long tail impeded her movements, and the mask obstructed her vision. Costumes were designed by Norah McGuiness.

"The Tall Tall Castle," a comedy mime satirising melodrama, contained many amusing touches; Donato Fortes, who is rapidly developing into one of Ireland's leading male dancers, made a comic hero; Audree McVey, as the Maiden, was graceful and humorous in nice degree, and Pat Mason brought many touches of broad comedy to the rôle of the Baron. Alex Dignam spoiled his part in this ballet, as in other ballets, by—apparently—attempting to talk while on the stage.

The "Snow Queen," performed a year ago under the title, "Winter Fantasie," remains the best thing on the programme. The Débussy music, wonderfully played by Maisie McCullough, the Rondel costumes, and the imaginative lighting alone raise this ballet above the average; the Cepta Cullen choreography is imaginative and exciting, and the dancing all through was good. Weak spots were the "Cathédrale Engloutie" sequence, where the music seemed to get beyond the scope of the dancers and the dancing of Jose MacAvin as the Snow Queen, Donato Fortes, Ethna Bartley and Pat Mason deserve special mention.

Of the Divertissement, the less said the better. The programme also included a pleasant little suite of dances to Strauss music.

Theatre Royal.—A lively bar-room scene, entitled "What's Yours?" featuring Harry Bailey and Noel Purcell, is one of the features of the highly amusing new edition of "Royal Flush," at the Theatre Royal, Dublin, this week. Comedy prevails throughout the show, with Messrs. Bailey and Purcell at their best, and assisted in some of their sketches by Johnny Caross, who also provides a daring acrobatic act, and by Jimmy Campbell and J. Maguire. The show includes Eddie Byrne's feature, "Double or Nothing"; and Mario and Marlene in a fiddle and dance act, Molly O'Connor as the vocalist, supported by Jimmy Campbell and the Royal Orchestra, and the Royal Violettes in a colourful presentation, "Gipsy Encampment." The film, "The Sea Hawk," featuring Errol Flynn, Claude Rains, and Brenda Marshall, is a great romance of the sea.

Olympia Theatre.—"Hello Everybody," which opened at Olympia Theatre, Dublin, last night, has in its twenty scenes something for all tastes. In lively song and dance the chorus set the ball rolling merrily, and the pace and fun is kept moving by Mike Nolan, with his quaint stories, Jack Harrington in songs and jokes, Fred. Doyle, Pauline Forbes in popular Irish songs, and Anne Hannigan in clever dances. Martin Crosby gets over a number of songs in his sweet tenor voice. The Great Rameses completely mystifies the audience with his display of magic. Marcella Shortall and Leslie St. Claire, with Cheeky Tommy, add to the entertainment.

Queen's Theatre. — The third edition of "Dublin Laughs Again" was presented at the Queen's Theatre, Dublin, last night. Special features were the singing of Eire O'Reilly, with Sean Glavin, in select song scenas. Liam O'Connor also offered new ballads, and others contributing to a good bill were Jimmy Harvey, Patty Ryan, Cecil Sheridan, Mick Eustace, Bill Brady, and the Queen's Moonbeams. Alex. Fryer and his orchestra also played their parts, and the Local Talent Parade was a success. The film was "Moontide," with Jean Gabin and Ida Lupino.
